Experience. Details. Results.

The world is struggling with an enormous challenge with a significant human impact, and our hearts go out to all who have been infected and affected by the coronavirus (COVID-19).

At Brandon Equine we believe it is our responsibility to assure the health and well-being of our clients as well as our family of veterinarians, technicians and office staff. With all of these people in mind, we have instituted temporary health practices that we are certain will still provide our patients with the best medical care we can provide, and safeguard the health of everyone involved.

In order to control the amount of traffic through the buildings, we are keeping our doors locked and limiting only doctors and staff in the buildings.

If you come to the clinic for an appointment, once you have parked and unloaded your horse a staff member will come to your vehicle and take your horse from you. While your horse is with us, please remain in your vehicle and the doctor will remain in contact with you via cell phone. Upon completion of the appointment your horse will be brought back out to you.

If you come to the clinic for medication pick-up a staff member will bring the prescription(s) out to you.

If we visit your farm and you are feeling unwell (fever, coughing, etc.) we kindly request that you let us tend to your horse while you remain inside. Our veterinarians have technicians to help them and they will remain in constant contact with you over cell phone.

If you are social distancing, self-quarantined, or exhibiting symptoms and need care for your horse, please contact the office and we will be happy to have a doctor call you to discuss your horse's medical issue and come up with a plan that may not require us to physically see your horse. Telemedicine can be a successful option in many cases especially with the options to FaceTime or share video and photographs from our cell phones. If your horse does need physical attention, we will be happy to see your horse but request that no potentially affected people are present.

We are available to you with any questions or concerns by calling 813-643-7177 or emailing info@brandonequine.com.

We appreciate your understanding during this time!
Best Regards,

Dr. Leann Kuebelbeck
